ABSTRACT

“Reference Service Cases of Employment of Persons with Disabilities” focuses on consideration of employment of persons with disabilities in the field of learning and education, especially an educational foundation. The thesis is classified into two different categories: Latest cases and various ideas that can be easily implemented to improve these systems.

There is evidence that educational committees have not hired persons with disabilities or considered them for employment. Therefore, educational committees should consider improving systems to aid in the employment of persons with disabilities in the future.
