ABSTRACT

The objective of this thesis is to investigate the problems of library systems in special needs schools. The function of a library is to support students' development and provide information and news for the public. And the function of a library teacher is connecting library and education as well as students and teachers. However, these functions have not worked well because school system establishments and teachers are unclear on the law. Therefore, the problems have not been properly researched. The results show that laws need to change and school library problems should be investigated more thoroughly.
